SUN BEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

We are not going to try and wax poetical or be sentimental about Mother's Day, but we think that a reminder that next Sunday, May 9, will be an occasion everyone whose mother still lives should not be overlooked. In the rush of our daily routine, we are likely to overlook sending or taking mother a rememberance. It is one gift that you know will be fully appreciated, though it be most commonplace.

The trout fishing season opened with a bang in Truckee. Many of the first day hopefuls were greeted with big smiles from Lady Luck, but the majority, like ourself, just for instance, not to mention Penie Loynd, Doc Bernard and others, had little or no luck at all. But we are still trying.

The program presented Thursday evening in commemoration of Public School Week was very entertaining and educational. There was only one discordant feature and that came from a group of boys, who apparently had little interest in the program but delighted in noise making so that others found it difficult to get the full benefit from the address.

It was gratifying to learn that C. E. Smith, a director of the local utility district since its organization ten years ago, has earned the confidnece of the electors to the extent that was exemplified at the election Tuesday. Smith, although unopposed, was given a complimentary vote of 68.

Too few people stop to think what benefits can be gained from trading at home and what dire results may result from spending Truckee-earned money elsewhere. Suppose everyone took their money out of town to spend? How long could Truckee last? Not long, you must agree. On the other hand, think how much it would mean to the town if everyone spent their earnings here with local merchants. Soon more clerks could be employed, new families could come to Truckee and every business here would grow and the town would expand. The argument is so obvious that it seems silly, but yet we find Truckee people, and many of them publically paid officials, whose jobs could not possibly last if it were not for the kindness of the town, running out of town to buy everything they need.

The Knights of Pythias are now all set for their annual roll call. One of the biggest affairs in the lodge's annual program, the roll call is open to the public and a good evening's entertainment is promised. The affair will be held at the Donner theater tomorrow night.

We live in this community and spend our money here. We have always been willing to give all local projects and functions our sincere support and we cannot comprehend the trend of thought that will allow people to ask and expect our undivided financial and moral attention to help them put over their individual axes and even help pay for printing and job work "bootlegged" from out of town shops that contribute nothing to their livlihood. Incidentally, if you care to stop in at the Sierra Sun office, or telephone 161, before giving your order to an out-of-town concern, we can assure you of at least equal quality work at equally low prices and at the same time will promise you that the money will be put back into circulation right here in Truckee.

One of our "friends" handed us the following clipping the other day and we believe it is worth repeating:

A gentleman was walking down the street with his little boy at his side when the youngster cried out, "Oh, Pa! There goes an editor."

"Hush, hush," said the father. Don't make sport of the poor man. Nobody known what may come to yourself some day." —The Outlook.

MANY NIMRODS MAKE CATCHES OPENING DAY

Pete Lazzari Returns First With Big Limit; Of Trout

THOUSANDS VISIT HERE

Weather, Stream Good For Opening Day in This Area

While there were scores of limits of trout caught in this area on the opening day of season, last Saturday, there were others who failed to register at all.

Fishing since Sunday has been better than on the opening days, according to local fishermen.

The first limit brough in Saturday was caught by Pete Lazzari, proprietor of the Donner Hotel, who landed his ten pounds and one fish and was back in Truckee by 6:30 o'clock. He was closely followed by Dave Cabona, who also brough in the limit in weight,two of the bunch weighing well over two pounds.

Both Lazzari and Cabona caught their fish near Boca.

The smallest limit in number, but the largest in weight was recorded by O. S. Schumacher, who landed two rainbows weighing a total of 12 pounds, 13 ounces. The largest of the two tipped the scales at seven pounds. Schumacher made his catch on the Truckee river near Lake Tahoe.

While it was virtually impossible to estimate the number of fishermen in this immediate locality on the opening day, conservative guessers set the number at between 4000 and 5000. Both sides of the river from Truckee to Floriston were lined with hopefuls.

Many veteran fishermen, who boast that they always land the limit on the opening day, were disappointed this year, while scores of small boys, hardly big enough to hold their poles, came in with baskets and sacks full.

BLAZE DAMAGES STRUCTURE AS RESIDENTS FLEE

Telephone Building Hit By Early Morning Fire

LOSS NEARLY $10,000

Operators Stay On Job In Spite of Water at Exchange

Occupants of the apartments in the Telephone Building on Commercial row fled the structure in night clothes shortly before 5 o'clock Monday morning, when fire, starting in the rear of the third floor, threatened the entire business block.

The fast and efficient work of the volunteer fire department and hastily recruited neighbors kept the blaze confined to the rear of the structure.

Damage for which replacement will cost nearly $10,000 was done, according to firemen. Much of the loss was covered by insurance. The building is owned by Tim O'Hanrahan, ill in a Reno hospital.

The blaze was first discovered by Leroy Russell, whose family occupied the rear third-floor apartment. Other occupants of the building included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams and Mrs. E. C. Bavier, all of whom lost personal effects. Dr. C. C. Cozzalio, whose office is on the second floor and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, with offices and exchange on the ground floor suffered losses through water.

The telephone operators, on duty at the time the building was blazing remained at their posts, despite the heavy deluge of water which poured down from the floors above. Improvised tents were pitched over the switchboards and delicate apparatus and service was continued unmolested.

The Southern Pacific fire train, under the supervision of Yard Master Pierce, responded and rendered aid.

One of the unsung heros of the day was Andrew Orez, cafe proprietor, who sized up the situation and siezing a garden hose rushed to the roof of the Donner theater and after breaking a window, played the stream of water on the fire until the fire hose was connected.

The fire department, under the command of Chief Tom Dolley, turned out 100 per cent.

The following interesting bit of history on the fire in Truckee over half a century ago was contributed by F. B. Porter:

Fifty-five years ago, in 1882, a fire started in the same location as the telephone office, in what was known as the Sheridan Shoe store, wiping the front street clean, except for the Capitol, destroying the office of the Truckee Republican which was located in the building now where Dave Cabona has a store.

The paper was run by Jake Weisenberger and A. D. Porter, my brother.

EXECUTIVE BOARD OF P. T. A. TO MEET

The Truckee Union P. T. A. executive board meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. S. E. Gordon on Monday evening, May 10 at 7:30 o'clock. All of the new officers are asked to attend.

A CURE FOR THE RUSH ACT

Not so long ago the legislators at Sacramento were hopefully talking about adjournment by May 15. But today, being up to their necks in budget business and labor trouble, it begins to look as though they'll be in the capital for a good many days beyond that date.

Of course the lawmakers, just as ordinary mortals would be, are anxious to get back to home and family and to have some time for their private affairs. But let's hope that this year they'll avoid some of the patent evils of the last minute legislative rush.

What usually happens is this. Bills by the dozen are brought on the floor and passed without any attempt being made to discover what is in them. Then these are tossed on the governor's desk, and everybody goes home but the governor.

He then, in effect, becomes a one-man legislature. It is up to him to sort through the whole batch, signing the ones he likes, discarding the ones he doesn't. So diverse are the bills, many of which the lawmakers wouldn't think of passing if they read them, that the governor can vote "yes" or "no" unanimously on most any conceivable subject. Is this fair to the public, or to the governor either, fr that matter.

A governor might cure them of this some day. He could sneak through a bill in the last-minute rush, and then when it came to his desk unread he could sign it. It would then be a measure calling for a fifty per cent slash in all legislators' salaries.

THEY SCOFF AND THEN DIE

In the never-ending war against death on the highway, each individual, to contribute his part, must know the habits of the enemy—the habits of accidents. Where do accidents happen? Why do they happen?

An analysis of accidents in California, one of the most thorough and searching on record, was issued the other day by the state department of motor vehicles. And here briefly are a few of the most revealing discoveries:

In every hundred accidents on city streets, there were five deaths, while on rural and private roads there were 16 deaths per 100 accidents. Drivers between the ages of 20 and 29 have more accidents than those of the other 10-year age group. Accidents involving drunken drivers and pedestrians increased nine per cent during 1936.

Of persons killed in traffic last year, 23 out of every 100 were women. Out of every 100 accidents, three were caused by mechanical defects of vehicles—faulty lights, or faulty brakes.

In all of these facts there is food for thought. But in one further discovery the very heart of California's traffic death problem is laid bare. It is a pity there is no way to sear it permanently into the mind of every driver who scoffs at the law—who scoffs and then crashes.

It is this——that by far the greatest number of accidents in California occur on good roads, in daylight, during clear weather, and involve a violation of the lawful driving rules.

IT PAYS

Call this a newspaperman's surrender to temptation, if you will, but word of a phenomenal sales record has just come to hand, and the moral it points about advertising is altogether too enticing to pass up.

Along about last Christmas, most of the automobile companies were announcing sharp increases in their advertising appropriations for 1937. Well, in California during the first quarter of this year, sales of new cars smashed all-time records, totalling 70,575 in all, and exceeding by nearly 5000 the boom-time high mark set in 1929.

The old story, with new emphasis—it pays.

More and more people are coming to realize the power of advertising, and the part it is playing in the march of progress. We can thank advertising for modern methods based on the efficiency of volume.

We're seeing advertising bring unprecedented volume to auto sales, at prices making cars available to people who once thought them unattainable luxury.

Everyone ultimately shares the benefits. But most particularly, right now when buying in all lines is steeply on the upgrade, the big winners are those merchants who understand the full truth of the old, old story— it pays.

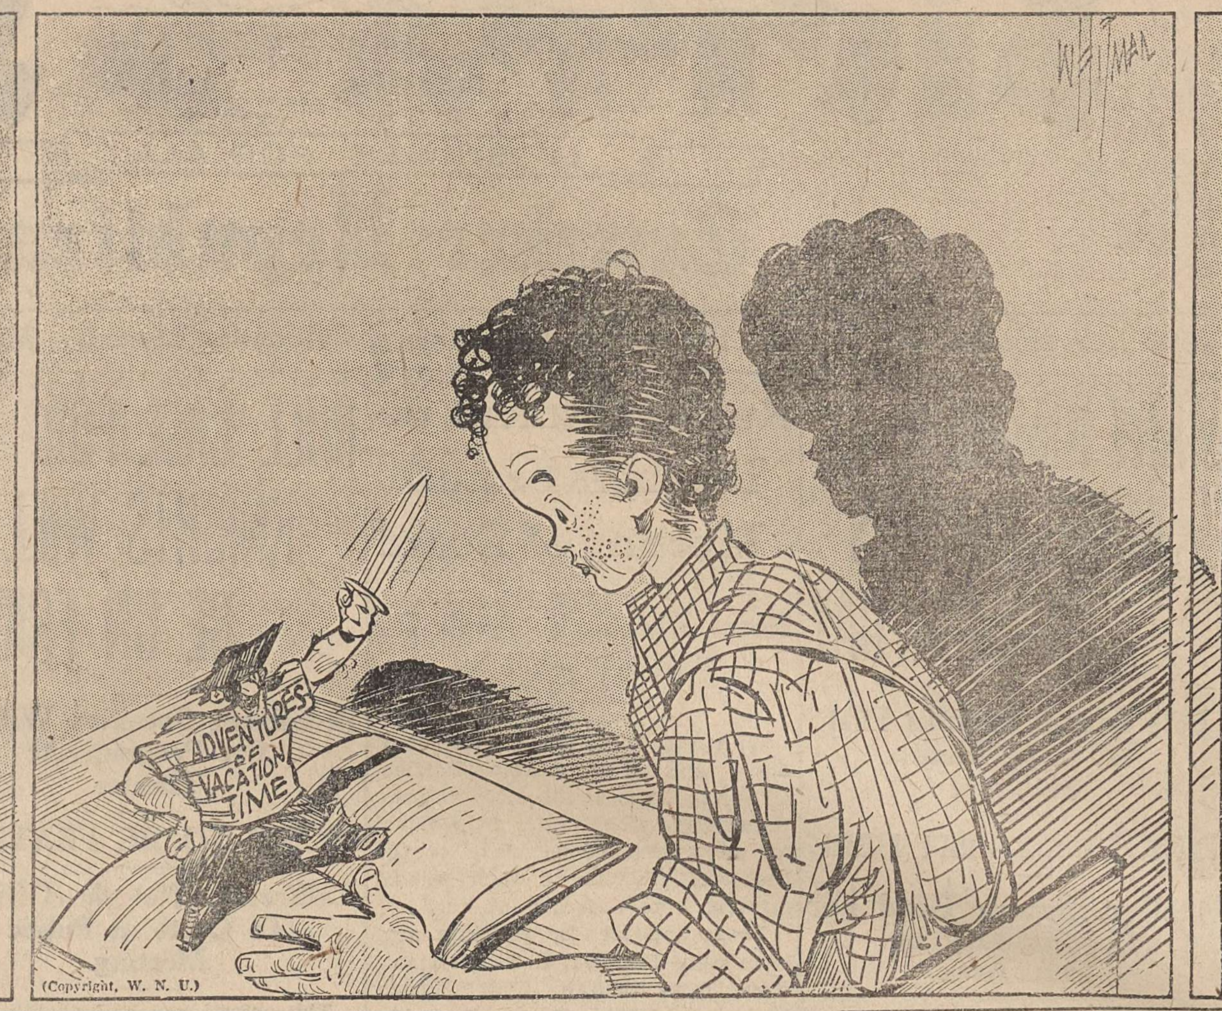
In the Spring a Young Man's Fancy



(Copyright, W. N. U.)

Politically Speaking

By GEORGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, May 6. —(UP)— The fastest piece of maneuvering seen in the legislature this year was organized by senate republican leaders who decided that the best way to avoid endless delays in handl in the budget bill was to pass the measure as amended by the assembly.

Preparations were so complete that the huge appropriation bill sailed through the upper house after only half an hour of discussion ana with only three members voting against it.

All of the senators were not "in on the play". When Senatoh Ralph Swing interrupted Senator Andrew Schottky in the midst of a debate on a non-partisan legislature bill and proposed "taking up the budget and getting rid of it before the noon recess," half a dozen members nearly fell out of their chairs.

It was 12:20 p. m. and the recess was slated to start at 12:30 when Swing said.

"Senator Schottky, it looks like you won't be able to finish your discussion of this bill before the recess. Would you mind interrupting it now, resuming it this afternoon, so we can take up the budget bill? I think we can get rid of it before the recess."

Those members who did not know the finance committee had recommended the budget bill for passage and lined up a two-thirds majority to approve the measure without alteration were dumbfounded. Ordinarily, two days or more are devoted to an item-by-item study of the budget bill and here was Swing suggesting the biggest budget document in state history could be disposed of in 10 minutes!

Senator Jerrold Seawell, Roseville, was the most vigorous protestant. He never heard of such a procedure, booming the budget through without studying it. No one else had heard of such a stunt, either. Even the assembly devoted a few hours to arguing the measure and made some amendments before passing it. In the house, too, no effort was made to follow the precedent of considering the bill item-by-item.

The senate waited until the afternoon session, then rushed the budget to a vote.

Senate leaders argued that if the bill were thrown wide open to amendments, three of four weeks would elapse before it was passed. Scores of important bills would be held up. On the other hand, Swing said, the budget would not be harmed by immediate approval of the document as amended by the assembly where the total of $446,000,000 was trimmed about $8,000,000 by plac ing capital improvement items in the unemployment relief fund.

Then, too—this was not openly discussed—the senate by passing the bill without further charges evaded being put on the spot and required to take the blame for increasing expenditures.

When the assembly refused nearly all requests for increased appropriations, trimmed the budget and sent it to the senate, many members

YOUTH SETS BED AFIRE AT INN, TELLS OF BEING ROBBED

TAHOE CITY, May 6.— Edward Ryan, 15-year-old Culver City boy, caused more than a little excitement on Friday night when his bed clothes and mattress caught fire from a lighted cigarette which he had been smoking before he dozed off to sleep in his room at the Tahoe Inn.

Small damage was done as the fire was extinguished at once.

The well-dressed young man who hitch-hiked his way to Tahoe told Constable Harry Johanson, who investigated him, that he had been robbed of his wallet by a traveling companion who accompanied him to Truckee and disappeared.

Carl Bechdolt of Tahoe Inn, placed no charge against the boy who was taken to Truckee and severely admonished and sent on his way home.

RECORD SET WITH NON-RESIDENT CARS

SACRAMENTO, May 6. —(UP)— More than 31,000 non-resident automobiles entered California during the first two months of 1937, Ray Ingels, director of the state department of motor vehicles reported.

In teh like month of 1936, approximately 26,000 cars from other states crossed the border into California.

PLACER FESTIVAL TO ATTRACT LAKE TAHOE RESIDENTS

TAHOE CITY, May 6.—The Placer county May Music Festival will be held this year on Sunday, May 16 at 3 p. m. in the glade on the Auburn Union grammar school grounds known as the Cooper amphitheater.

Such favorable comment has been heard from music critics and the public alike that efforts are being extended to make the festival an annual event at the same locale.

Last year's presentation was attended by a large group of Tahoites.

This year the program will include a group of songs featuring unison, and two and three part harmony. There will be seating capacity for 780 persons with band music and a special May dance number rounding out the event.

A beautiful waffle iron was presented them during the evening, the cost beinb shared by the large group which attended. Dancing and cards concluded the very enjoyable evening.

WRECKED RESORT TO BE REBUILT FOR COMING SUMMER

TAHOE CITY, May 6.- Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lewis of Tahoe have purchased the old Tamarack Lodge across from the Tahoe fish hatchery. They plan to tear dow the buildings leveled by the heavy snows this winter and install a modern auto camp which will be ready for operation this season.

Unscrupulous persons have been carrying away from the wreckage dishes, blankets and even a toilet bowl and wash stand with fixtures. Recently Mr. Lewis has found it necessary to sleep on the premises to prevent further pilfering. All of which goes to emphasize the need of a salaried constable who would patrol the entire district and apprehend these petty thieves, who have broken into other homes in the region where caretakers are not employed, carrying away food, bedding and clothing.

POOR LUCK GREETS TAHOE FISHERMEN AS SEASON OPENS

TAHOE CITY, May 6.—Although the opening day of the fishing season dawned bright and sunny, few local fishemen were enthused with their success, either on the Truckee or in the lake.

Many old timers, accustomed to getting the limit each year, returned with either poor catches or none at all. They declare that fishing here will not be improved for another month.

Numerous small fishing craft and a number of motor boats made their first appearance of the season. Greatly increased traffic was noted over the week end.

Among successful fishermen on the opening day were Dr. C. B. Pedersen, Chris Boyiaredes, Johnny Kynoch, Bill Topp, James Wilson and James Ferguson.

The warm weather is causing the snow to disappear rapidly, with buttercups starting to dot the green meadows of the lowlands.

LEGISLATIVE SIDELIGHTS

(By United Press)

At a recent legislative dinner given by Gov. Frank F. Merriam a group of pretty girls from Hollywood furnished a considerable portion of the entertainment. They were dressed in attractive uniforms closely resembling the garb of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police. The following day, led by Senator Karl P. Keough, the girls marched down the aisle of the assembly and ranged themselves before the speaker's desk.

Keough introduced them to the members and asked that their names be printed in the journal.

"But," he added, "nothing doing on printing their addresses or phone numbers."

Democrats around the capitol are highly confident over prospects of winning control of the state government next year, and often express their views on the subject. Particularly is that true in the democratic controlled assembly.

During debate on the tideland oil bills, Assemblyman John O'Donnell, democrat, had occasion to refer to Senator Culbert Olson, frequently mentioned as a possible democratic gubernatorial candidate. He called him "Governor Olson." The slip brought a chorus of laughter and remarks from all sides of the chamber.

"I was thinking of Minnesota", said O'Donnell in explanation.

Governor Olson of Minnesota died several months ago.

During senate debate on the highly controversial relief bill, Senator W. P. Rich, keen-witted solon from Marysville, was reeling off figures in support of his amendments to the measure.

"Say," Senator Bradford Crittenden interposed, "don't you think this bill ought to go over until tomorrow?"

"I think it ought to go over for good," retorted Rich.

Rich got another laugh later on when he was presiding in the absence of Lt. Gov. Geogre J. Hatfield.

Senator Frank Gordon objected vigorously to persons giving one of his bills the "run-around" and declared he would "go to hell and back to support the measure."

"When are you going to start, Frank?" the irrepressible Rich wanted to know.

Whenever Pat McMurray, sharp witted San Francisco assemblyman, enters the debate it's usually the signal for a general round of repartee. An example:

"And from time immemorial—" began McMurray.

"Mr. Speaker , will Mr. McMurray be requested to please confine himself to the English language," interrupted Assemblyman Ralph Welsh.

"It's no use, Mr. Speaker," retorted McMurray, "he's from Los Angeles and wouldn't understand it."

The argument over whether removal of the state mineralogist's office from San Francisco should be approved brought on lengthy discussion of where the state's choicest gold fields were located.

"In my opinion," said Assemblyman Fred Glick of South Gate, "there's more gold digging to the square block in San Francisco than in all of northern California."

Senator Karl Keough spoke his mind concerning civil service.

"Now, chiefs, here is the way it works. You take the boys that ride up and down the highway on those little white bicycles. It isn't always a matter of competitive examinations. Sometimes it is a matter of who you know on the board."

After several more references to the "little white bicycles," Keough explained he had in mind the highway patrol, one of the units under the civil service.

Senator Sanford Young is widely known for his efforts to reduce the use of narcotics in California.

Speaking before the upper house the other day on a bill affecting civil service, of which he was one of the co-authors, Young remarked. "This legislation is the result of two years' study by the narcotic interim committee."

He hastily amended the slip, but not before alert Senator Herbert Slater had seized the opportunity to leap to his feet and remark he "hoped Senator Young was not confusing the two issues."

Everyday Cooking Miracles

BY VIRGINIA FRANCIS

Director Hotpoint Electric Cookery Institute

Said John as he adjusted his quickly looped tie, "Gee, Mary, you don't know how swell it is to have a leisurely breakfast with you every morning. Somehow it just starts the day out right. Remember how you used to hustle around in the kitchen getting breakfast, fussing with this and finishing up that while I ate breakfast in installments and sometimes by my lonesome?"

There's no waiting for breakfast when the electric range and its timer-clock safeguard the meal.

"Yes, isn't it grand," replied Mary, taking the done-to-a-turn Canadian bacon from the oven of her new electric range. She added with a twinkle in her eye, "And, remember, I had to tease you to buy this range, too."

But then, steaming hot oatmeal, prunes and apricots and baked Canadian bacon on a cold autumn morning are enough to elicit praise and thanks from any hungry man.

Such a breakfast is honest proof of the sensibility of that "new fangled range" which Mary just couldn't get along without. Even without knowing that the "chef's brain," (or automatic timer clock) cooked this breakfast while the family slept, it's still a "miracle" breakfast. Everything deliciously cooked, everything piping hot and ready to serve right on the dot.

Breakfast-by-the-Clock

The fact of the matter is that this breakfast or any "absent" electric cookery meal is cooked according to your explicit directions but without requiring your attention or even your presence in the house. You can place the meal in the trusty electric oven any time you desire and by merely touching a few "magic" switches this meal will begin to cook when, and for the desired length of time, you wish. Control—that the keynote of such a feat.

Time-control is the leisure-giving feature made possible by the "chef's brain." It automatically sets off and checks the flow of electric heat units. Temperature-control assures an even, inflexible degree of heat; moisture-control keeps the food moist and in perfect condition during its stay in the oven.

Now, let's re-enact the process of preparing this delicious breakfast.

Oven Breakfast

Stewed prunes and apricots: Wash and pick over fruit. Place in pan or baking casserole, and cover with water; cover. (While in the oven the fruits plump up, thus eliminating soaking.)

Oatmeal: Place 2 cups oatmeal in saucepan or baking dish and add 2 cups water; cover.

Canadian bacon: Arrange bacon in shallow baking pan.

Place cold food in electric oven, the oatmeal and fruit on lower rack, and the bacon on the upper rack. Set Timer Clock for a cooking period of 1½ hours. Set Temperature Control to 350°. Turn switch to Bake.

FIGHT IS MADE TO PERMIT INDIANS TO BUY LIQUORS

By JACK WELTER
United Press Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, May 6. —(UP)— Now that the white man has taken nearly all of the country away from the Indians, Senator Karl P. Keough of Inyo county proposes to let them buy liquor to drown their sorrow.

Keough who purportedly is one-eighth Indian himself and is known hereabouts as "Chief," won concurrence of the state senate. The bill in which he proposes to let California's original citizens buy a snifter legally now awaits assembly action.

The proposal has not traveled this far without considerable opposition. Prohibitionist insist the idea is outlandish.

There are those who claim Indians can't hold as much liquor as a white man. Confronted with this argument, Keough snorted and allowed as how an Indian "can hold one-eighth more than an Irishman," He said he has testimony of medical experts to prove it, too.

All these arguments proved so confusing that this correspondent decided the only way to clarify the issue would be to find an Indian. A cigar store Indian appeared to be struck dumb by the idea, stolidly declined to comment.

Then the trail led to federal court and a whole flock of Indians, young ones and old ones. Some of them were in trouble for taking firewater on the reservation. Others were in trouble, it was testified, they tried to muscle in on another Indian's pint. There were still others who had been subpoenaed to testify, and who weren't in trouble with the federal officers.

But it developed that a few of the latter group had run inti difficlty with city police. Found wandering on a city street early one morning, considerably tipsy, they told radio police:

"We've lost our trail." They spent the night in jail

So it looked like a bad day for the yes-we-sell-liquor-to-Indians case until Fillmore Duncan, an Indian from Round Valley, Mendocino county, turned up in the corridor. His son, Arthur, 19, had been stabbed, but not fatally, by an Indian who was on trial for the offense, which involved a liquor bottle.

Physical evidence to the contrary, Duncan, who has two sons besides Arthur, would like to see the measure pass.

"Back 10 or 12 years ago when I quit drinking," he explained, "ii used to be a case of two or three of us buying a gallon of wine and getting polluted. We'd pass the jug around and every Indian would drink all he could. He'd be afraid it might not get back to him. The liquor Indians have to buy from bootleggers is pretty bad, too."

This inclination and instinct, the rancher believes, causes the popular impression than an Indian plus liquor equals trouble.

"As far as I can see, Indians are different from other people only in one respect. They hold grudges. If somebody insults them or wrongs them, they don't forget it. So when they get drunk, the grudge pops out and there's trouble."

Supporting Keough's argument in the matter of capacity, Duncan agreed that a good two-fisted Indian "can drink just as much as anybody else."

MEEK' BAY NEWS

George Kehlet, Meeks Bay manager, for the past month ill in Sacramento, is reported recuperating this week at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. B. Stewart, in Mill Valley. Gleaned From The Bright Side of Life

Joe Mattos, the ice and beverage man, went into a local market the other day and purchased a chicken.

The next day he visited the market, got the meat man off to one side, and said gruffly:

"Listen you, the next time you sell me a chicken dont't give me one of those airplane kind."

"I don't know what you mean," replied the meat man.

"Oh, yes you do," growled Joe. "They're all wings and machinery."

Red Coral Always Prized

It is red coral that is and always has been prized, not solely for jewelry and buttons, but as a charm to bring safety, health and secrets not revealed to the ordinary person. As ancient Gauls rushed headlong into battle, they trusted their safety to their swords, strength and the "magic" coral imbedded in their shields or helmets. Many Italians and Indians regard coral as protection against the "evil eye." The world's red coral comes from the reefs off the Mediterranean coast of Africa, says the Washington Post, and is obtained chiefly by Italians.

PATRONIZE TRUCKEE STORES

Wealth and Fame

TO ONE looking out over a world of human endeavor, it may appear that the chief objective of men is to acquire material wealth and fame. While some may be striving to procure daily meals, others may be trying to gain millions. Some may seek to be heard by their neighbors, while others strive to be heard by nations. And because of erroneous mortal beliefs men often work strenuously for material wealth and fame, giving little thought to the gaining of genuine substance, that which alone sustains and prospers man.

To the materially minded, to darkened mortal sense, wealth and fame may mean merely perishable gold and personal glory, while to the spiritually enlightened they mean something far greater. They mean true substance and honor—imperishable, impersonal, and eternal. In either case, wealth and fame are two significant words.

Since God is infinite good, spiritual and eternal, can that which has only a material or temporal existence be truly good? If wealth is good, it must be of God; therefore, it is not material but spiritual, not temporal but eternal, not uncertain and perishable but certain and imperishable. Genuine wealth lies in spiritual understanding. . . Did not Christ Jesus say (Matthew 6:33), "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you"? And these words have a very simple meaning. They mean that if we seek to know and understand God aright, every human need will be abundantly met.

Now the word "fame" is defined, in part, by our dictionaries as "lofty (or exalted) reputation derived from great achievements." What achievements could be greater than healing the sick and raising the dead as did Jesus of Nazareth? Was it not surely a great achievement to feed five thousand with "but five loaves, and two fishes" at hand, and to have much food remaining after all had eaten. It is recorded that as Christ Jesus went about Galilee "healing all manner of sickness," . . "his fame went throughout all Syria" (Matthew 4:23, 24). No spiritual achievements can be greater than those of the master Christian.

The wealthiest, most famed, and most powerful individual ever to dwell among men was Christ Jesus, yet he possessed little of the world's riches. This, however, did not prevent him from meeting every human need, even for the multitudes who turned to him for help. . . .

All will agree that power is resident in Truth. And we learn through Christian Science that God is Truth, and that God is substance. Hence, genuine substance, including wealth, honor, and potency, is purely spiritual; therefore eternal. The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 468), "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay." Jesus proved substance to be God, good; hence harmonious and permanent.

He who possesses a true understanding of God and of man's relationship to Him, and sincerely strives to live the divine precepts, is vastly richer than he who may have gained great worldly possessions or mere personal popularity, but does not know God. Solomon humbly sought first of all "an understanding heart" that he might "discern between good and bad" (I Kings 3:9). Solomon was wise, indeed, for the record continues, assuring us that God not only gave Solomon "an understanding heart," but "both riches, and honour." In his parable (Luke 12:16-21) Jesus tells of "a certain rich man" who believed he had "much goods laid up for many years;" and decided to build greater storage facilities for his rapidly accumulating wealth; but "God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee." And the parable continues, "So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God."

Mrs. Eddy wrote (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, pp. 283, 284), "Lured by fame, pride, or gold, success is dangerous, but the choice of folly never fastens on the good or the great." Indeed, it is not sinful to express abundance or to be known and loved. Such achievements, however, should be the fruit of Christianly scientific demonstration, else one has a very uncertain claim to them. Whatever spiritual good one may acquire through his understanding of the Christ, Truth, is imperishable. As one gains true understanding he grows rich in genuine substance, including wealth and honor, health and joy, harmony and prosperity.—The Christian Science Monitor.

NEW ELECTRIC STORE OPENING HERE THIS WEEKEND

SOUVENIRS WILL BE GIVEN VISITORS AT STORE'S OPENING

After weeks of preparation, during which time he has completely renovated and remodele a building on the east end of Commercial row, Chester H. Elliott, recently of Hobart Mills, announces that the new home of the C. & E. Electrical Service will be officially opened at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Everyone is invited to attend the opening during Friday afternoon and all day Saturday. Souvenirs will be presented to each one calling to insepct the new establishment. On Saturay evening at 7 o'clock a grand award will be given, Elliott said.

General Electric appliances with a complete service shop will be featured.

Since 1934, Elliott has operated the C. & E. Electrical Service at Hobart Mills where he was also employed as head electrician for the Hobart Estate Mills. Prior to that he was electrician for the Clover Valley Lumber Company at Loyalton after graduating from the University

RADIO FILLS NEED IN FURNISHING ALL WITH MUSIC, EVENTS

Miracles become commonplace quickly these days.

Trus the marvel of 1921 is indispensable companion of today. The radio even now has stepped beyond the home threshold into the vehicle in which many spend most of their waking hours—the automobile.

And impatiently we await television. Radio perhaps more spectacularly than anything else electrical, hs immeasurably increased the joy of living. It has brought entertain-of Nevada where he specialized in electrical engineering.

"I see a great future for Truckee and the Lake Tahoe regions," Elliott declared, "and it is my intention to install a service shop and store to meet the requirements of the future. My education andex perience in the electrical business, I feel, qualifies me to care for any job where electricity is employed. Our stock of G. E. appliances will be one of the best."

REFRIGERATORS ARE USED FOR NUMEROUS COOKING PURPOSES

Just an ordinary grapefruit, after a brief stay in an electric refrigerator, becomes a rare treat. Just a simple salad acquires a best-hotel air when it is chilled to the proper point of crispness. Drinks, too, are more refreshing when they are really cold. Keep a supply in the refrigerator. Or for last minute serving use your always ready ice cubes.

The modern housekeeper also has found, to her surprise, that with an electric refrigerator, it is just as easy to make luscious mousse as it used to be to make an uninteresting rice pudding. She finds that an aspic is a welcome hot weather change from soup.

ers, music, opera stars beyond the purse of most of the listeners, into their very homes. It brings personality of presidents, kings, famed people, the knowledge of scientists, and physicians—the events of the day—daring deeds even as they transpire.

ELECTRIC RANGES IN KITCHEN PROVE BOON IN COOKING

Be it ever so humble, every home in Truckee, be it mansion or cottage can enjoy the uniformly good cooking that is possible only with an electric range.

Nature holds back all the disagreeable features of combustion in electricity. The subtle vitamines, the delicate flavors can be retained by careful electric cookery. As clean as western sunshine, as responsive to control as a violin string, as safe as fresh air, as automaticas you like it to be for you—is electric cookery, one of electricity's most tried and proved gifts to modern living.

Watches Once Small Clocks

Watches originally were small clocks and were worn hung from the girdle because they were too large for the pocket.

Radio, whose sensitive tubes are cabinet by a trickle of electricity, made to glow within a handsome brings one of the greatest gifts to mak living better.

POLITICALLY SPEAKING

confidently expected the upper house to restore the depleted items and grant various incrases. This would have pleased assemblymen who wanted to allow more money for various purposes but did not want to be blamed for extravagance. Had the senate voted the increases, the assembly might have concurred in them and tossed the blame to the upper house.

When it hurdled the budget obstacle, the legislature made important progress toward adjournment. Estimates were that the rest of the work could be cleaned up in three weeks if both houses worked seriously and did not wste too much time in long debates on measures that mean little aside from giving the legislators a chance to orate.

The senate adopted a resolution to adjourn May 14, but the concensus was that the session would extend more than a week beyond that date.

Following the budget bill to the governor was the Olson tideland oil drilling measure which was amended to include an urgency clause to make it effective as soon as it is signed.

This provision was inserted to prevent further delays in the development of the state-owned oil pool at Huntington Beach. Proponents figured that without the urgency clause, the act would be held up by referendum action instituted by oil company interests opposed to throwing the field open to competitive bidding.

Wells now draining oil from the pool pay the state only 11 per cent royalty. The Olson bill would require wells drilled directly into the pool from islands and piers to pay the state at least 30 per cent royalty if the production ran 200 or more barrels day.

Senator Culbert L. Olson was chered by the victory which followed a long thifg against powerful interests which opposed tideland drilling.

The governor's office became the center of attention with both the budget and the Olson bill awaiting final action. Governor Merriam has not said what he intends to do with either measure.

HUGE SUM GAINED FROM SALES TAX FUND DURING YEAR

SACRAMENTO, May 6. —(UP)— Unexpected heavy revenue during the last quarter brought the state's income from the three per cent retail sales tax up to $81,478,533.03 for the year 1936, the state board of equalization reported.

Complete figures for the final three months of last year showed collections from this source of $22,980,421, an increase of 21.88 per cent over the same period in 1935 and 9.86 per cent more than those of the preceding quarter.

The income for 1936 brought the total revenue derived from the sales tax since 1933 up to $223,870,036.
